Legal Criteria for Abetment of Suicide

- Bar for proof - It would be higher in cases where the deceased and the accused have an official relationship (such as between an employer and employee).
- Both the courts and prosecuting agencies must see if there is evidence to show that the accused intended to cause the suicide.
- There must be “direct and alarming encouragement/ incitement by the accused” to prosecute someone for abetment to suicide.
- Requirement for direct evidence - In M Mohan v The State (2011), the SC set a high bar for proving abetment of suicide under Section 306 IPC, including specific intent.
 - It requires an active or direct act which led the deceased to commit suicide seeing no option.
 - And this act must have been intended to push the deceased into such a position that he/ she committed suicide”.
- This standard was upheld in Ude Singh v State of Haryana (2019) as well, where the SC stated
 - There must be a proof of direct or indirect act(s) of incitement to the commission of suicide.
 - If the accused by his acts and by his continuous course of conduct creates a situation which leads the deceased perceiving no other option except to commit suicide, the case may fall within the four corners of Section 306 IPC.

What are the recent orders of Supreme Court?

- It stated that investigating agencies need to be sensitised to the law laid down by SC under Section 306 IPC so that persons are not subjected to abuse of process of a totally untenable prosecution.
- Do's - The persons involved in genuine cases where the threshold is met should not be spared.
- Don'ts - The provision (Sec 306 IPC/Sec 108 BNS) should not be deployed against individuals only to assuage the immediate feelings of the distraught family of the deceased.

- It states that hyperboles and informal exchanges without anything more should not be glorified as an instigation to commit suicide.

In October 2024, the Supreme Court quashed the case of abetment of suicide in which a salesperson died by suicide after alleged harassment from senior officers in his company who were forcing him to opt for a voluntary retirement scheme.

What lies ahead?

- India's current suicide prevention efforts, which fall under the National Mental Health Programme, must expand to a 'whole-government public health approach'.
- More focus is needed on addressing socio-economic risks alongside mental health interventions.
- Create a more supportive environment that prioritises early intervention, reduces stigma, and ultimately saves lives

India's National Suicide Prevention Strategy, released in 2022, highlights the necessity of adopting a more comprehensive approach.
