

Concerns with Missing Children in US

What is the issue?

 $n\n$

\n

- To deter illegal border crossings into the US, the government has been separating the children from their parents.
- This has resulted in many of the unaccompanied children to get lost while in federal custody.

\n\n

What decision was taken by the US to deter illegal migrants?

 $n\n$

\n

- The US administration under the President Donald Trump has been concentrating on resolving the illegal border crossing issue.
- They had announced that migrants smuggling their children into the US border would be separated from their children to reduce the illegal crossings.
- Following this decision, the US Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) has reported as many as 1,475 unaccompanied children were missing while in federal custody during 2017.

 $n\n$

What is the current scenario of migrant children in US?

 $n\n$

\n

- The migrant children who illegally cross borders with their parents are separated from them by the federal authorities and kept in their custody.
- The HHShas reported that since October 2017, more than 700 migrant children had been taken from adults claiming to be their parents.

- \bullet The Federal dept. holds no accountability for these children and this has led to many children missing. $\mbox{\sc holds}$
- Thus, over the past week, public debate and outragehave erupted against the administration's insensitive policy towards migrant children.

 $n\n$

What are the concerns with this decision?

 $n\n$

\n

- While forcibly separating children from the parents, families face a lot of trauma and the health and wellbeing of the children are not considered.
- After separation from parents, the children are not held responsible by the authorities and their needs are not properly being cared.
- \bullet While according to the law to reduce illegal crossings, these actions are against the moral practices and not acceptable by the public. $\mbox{\sc h}$

 $n\n$

 $n\n$

Source: The Indian Express

\n

