

Cross Border Human Trafficking

What is the issue?

 $n\n$

\n

- Following the 2015 Nepal earthquake, there has been threefold increase in human trafficking from Nepal to India.
- Most of the victims were reported to be minors and large number of women left the country to find employment abroad.
- The destination countries for most of them were Kyrgyzstan, Israel, West Asia, and India.

What are the concerns in identifying human trafficking?

 $n\n$

\n

- \bullet Identifying cases of human trafficking is not easy as no case of human trafficking has been registered since 2015. $\ensuremath{\backslash n}$
- It is often difficult for the police to identify a human trafficking case at the source since the victim may have been lured through the false promise of marriage or a job.

\n

- The Indo-Nepal Treaty of Peace and Friendship, 1950 provides for an open border between Nepal and India and there is a seamless human movement.
- \bullet Individuals are stopped only on the basis of suspicion, intelligence or information from family members or relatives. \n

What measures needs to be taken?

 $n\n$

\n

• Closing the border may prevent cross-border trafficking, but it could also engender economic vulnerabilities for those who have jobs or own businesses along the border.

\n

• It is imperative to create economic opportunities, particularly for the youth, within the country.

۱n

• Nepal-India border needs to be equipped with enhanced intelligence networks and effective monitoring mechanisms.
