

Financial Sector Self-Regulatory Organizations (SRO)

Why in News?

In August, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) recognised the Fintech Association for Consumer Empowerment (FACE) as a self-regulatory organisation (SRO) in the financial technology (fintech) sector.

What is a self-regulatory organisation (SRO)?

- Self-Regulatory Organizations (SRO) - These are usually non-governmental organizations, established to regulate certain professions or industries to promote order among businesses and organizations.
- They act as a bridge between industry players and the regulator.
- SROs accomplish control through internal mechanisms that regulate the flow of business operations.
- Functions of SROs - The primary function of this SRO is
 - To represent all stakeholders
 - Set standards and best practices
 - Establishing and enforcing regulatory standards
 - Promoting ethical behaviour and market integrity
 - Fostering transparency and accountability among members
 - Collect data, monitor and report violations
 - Address grievances, resolve disputes
 - Raise customer awareness and protect them
 - Support research and development
 - Complement existing regulatory and supervisory arrangements.
- FinTech SRO (SRO FT) - They have membership from fintech's currently regulated by the RBI, including non-banking financial companies-account aggregators (NBFC-AA), NBFC-peer-to-peer (P2P) lending platforms, among others, excluding banks.
- Regulations of SRO - The Reserve Bank of India recognizes SRO in banking and fintech sector and SEBI in the capital market sector.

SROs regulated by SEBI

• Association of Merchant Bankers of India (AMBI)

AMBI was granted recognition to set up professional standards for providing efficient services and establish standard practices in merchant banking and financial services.

• Association of Mutual Funds of India (AMFI)

It is the SRO of mutual funds organizations.

• Registrars Association of India (RAIN)

The Registrars Association of India (RAIN) a self-regulatory organisation for registrars to an issue and share transfer agents has been set up.

SROs regulated by RBI

- Foreign Exchange Dealers' Association of India (FEDAI) -It was formed as an association of banks dealing in foreign exchange (authorised dealers) and is incorporated under Section 25 of the Companies Act, 1956.
- Fintech Association for Consumer Empowerment (FACE)- It is a self-regulatory organisation (SRO) in the financial technology (fintech) sector.
- NBFC Microfinance SROs - Sa Dhan and Microfinance Institutions Network (MFIN).

What are the benefits?

- Facilitate open communication - Through regular consultations, feedback, and policy dialogues, the SROs facilitate open communication and help fintech's remain informed about regulatory expectations.
- Expertise - SROs are widely considered experts in their fields and, therefore, know a great deal about the markets they work in.
- Higher standard of conduct - With the establishment of SROs, member organizations follow a certain standard of conduct that helps promote ethical ways of doing business.
- Boost confidence - High standard of conduct can lead to investors and consumers becoming more confident in the market.
- Saves public money - SROs do not rely on people's taxes but are instead funded by the organizations that are under its wings.
- Therefore, the government is able to save by foregoing the need to maintain an agency for such a purpose.

What are the challenges?

- On Boarding - There is initial low momentum in onboarding members under the self-regulatory bodies.
- There has not been any SRO for the banking system and most of them functions as mere associations.
- Heterogeneous entities - Since NBFC sector is heterogeneous, limiting the number of SROs to two will affect their effectiveness.
- Big Entities - The most influential technology companies such as Alphabet (Google), Apple, Meta (Facebook), Amazon and Microsoft offer various financial and non-financial services.
- There is lack of guidelines about their inclusion under the SROs.
- Diverse functions - Many entities are involved both in lending and payments and are directly regulated for certain activities, but indirectly regulated for others.
- The coverage of these entities under an SRO poses challenges.
- Uncertainty in Roles - There is a lack of clarity on the roles of fintech's that are associated with lending and payments companies.

Way forward?

- Encourage and incentivise entities to get registered under self-regulatory organizations.
- Set up SROs for different segments, based on the principal activities and the chain of entities involved.

- Treat regulated and unregulated entities differently.
- Avoid overlap for the effective implementation of the SRO regime.

Quick Facts

- Indian Banks' Association (IBA) - It was established in 1946 as an interface between banks, the RBI, and the government.
- It is not an SRO.
- Association of Small Finance Banks of India- It is a body representing small finance banks.
- It is also an association, not an SRO.
- Finance Industry Development Council - It was established in 2004 and represents NBFCs, particularly those involved in lending.
- It's an industry body, not an SRO.
