What is the issue?

\n\n

\n

- The last date for filing claims and objections for Assam's National Register of Citizens (NRC) has been extended by the Supreme Court by 15 days from December 15, 2018.

\n

- The outcome of the NRC exercise has implications for India's ties with Bangladesh.

Why is Bangladesh significant for India?

\n\n

\n

- According to the latest available Bangladesh government estimates of 2009, more than 500,000 Indians were working in Bangladesh.

\n

- More recently, Bangladesh was reported to be among the highest source of remittances to India, behind the UAE, the U.S., Saudi Arabia, Qatar and the U.K.

\n

- Many Indian citizens are securing employment opportunities in Bangladesh through MNCs, NGOs and trading activities.

\n

- Most of them are employed in advantageous jobs in Bangladesh while Bangladeshis in India are largely employed in low-paying jobs.

\n

- More importantly, it is to be noted that there are legal as well as illegal Indian immigrants in Bangladesh too.

What is the tussle?

\n\n

- \n
 - The government maintains that the NRC is an administrative task overseen by the Supreme Court, and not a political one.
 - \n
 - However, some members of the ruling party have been making hateful anti-migration and anti-Bangladeshi comments.
 - \n
 - This reflects poorly on the prevalent positive relationship between Bangladesh and India.
 - \n
 - Also, Indian PM has assured the Bangladesh government that those excluded from the NRC will not be deported.
 - \n
 - But Bangladesh has so far been silent on the issue, terming it as an 'internal matter of India'.
 - \n
 - Notably, Bangladesh is already at the extremes in terms of use of resources and manpower to host Rohingya refugees.
 - \n
 - So it would not be acceding to a request of taking back Bengali-speaking Muslims in case deportation is initiated.

How is India's 'Neighbourhood First' policy performing?

\n\n

- \n
 - The 'Neighbourhood First' policy of the Government of India seems to be undergoing a transformation in the recent period.
 - \n
 - Nepal - Nepal, once a time-tested ally of India, has tilted towards China.
 - \n
 - This is particularly since the 2015 Nepal blockade barring the entry of fuel, medicine and other vital supplies.
 - \n
 - Nepal now has been given access to four Chinese ports at Tianjin, Shenzhen, Lianyungang and Zhanjiang.
 - \n

- This is in addition to access to its dry (land) ports at Lanzhou, Lhasa and Xigatse, as well as roads to these facilities.
\n
- These seem to be ending India's monopoly to Nepal's trading routes.
\n
- Bhutan - The India-Bhutan relationship has also been strained.
\n
- This is witnessed ever since India temporarily withdrew subsidies on cooking gas and kerosene in 2013, constraining bilateral ties.
\n
- The Doklam stand-off of 2017 reinforced Bhutan's scepticism towards Chinese expansionist plans across the region.
\n
- Simultaneously, this landlocked kingdom has been underlining its aspiration to affirm its sovereignty.
\n
- E.g. it has stepped out of India's diplomatic influence, as evidenced by its withdrawal from BBIN (Bangladesh-Bhutan-India-Nepal) motor vehicles agreement
\n
- Bangladesh - With China making inroads into South Asia and India's backyard, Bangladesh has been the most trusted ally of India.
\n
- On the security front, it has cooperated in India's crackdown on insurgents.
\n
- With close cooperation with Border Guard Bangladesh (BGB), a number of training places and hideouts of these insurgents (in Bangladesh) has been reduced to almost zero.
\n
- Annual bilateral trade is set to cross the $9 billion mark, making it India's biggest trading partner in South Asia.
\n
- In addition, Bangladesh has facilitated connectivity with the Northeast by allowing the use of Chittagong and Mongla ports.
\n
- However, the following issues remain unresolved, being irritants in the relationship -
\n

\n\n

\n

i. the Teesta water-sharing issue

\n

ii. non-tariff barriers on Bangladeshi exports

\n

iii. border killings

\n

\n\n

\n

- Others - The India-China power play has also cast its shadow over Sri Lanka and the Maldives in the last few years.

\n

\n\n

What do these imply?

\n\n

\n

- The NRC compilation exercise has sparked a debate around its political, economic and humanitarian consequences.
- The issue threatens to disturb the equilibrium in India-Bangladesh ties.
- Any deportation of those not in the NRC list is not only politically unwise but also risk inciting unrest across the region.
