

India-ASEAN Commemorative Summit - Delhi Declaration

Why in news?

\n\n

\n

- India-ASEAN Commemorative Summit was held recently, marking 25 years of India-ASEAN ties.

\n

- The 'Delhi Declaration' was released after the summit.

\n

\n\n

What are the key mentions?

\n\n

\n

- MARITIME - ASEAN-India cooperation in the maritime domain was one of the key focus areas.

\n

- Growth and development for the Indo-Pacific region was the prime objective behind this agenda.

\n

- Shared vision for peace and prosperity through a rules-based order for the oceans and seas was emphasized.

\n

- Respect for international law, notably UNCLOS (United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea) was stressed as critical.

\n

- The reference to freedom of navigation and UNCLOS came in the backdrop of China's position on the disputed South China Sea.

\n

- Humanitarian and disaster relief, and security cooperation were also agreed as areas of cooperation.

\n

- Support for the implementation of Declaration on the Conduct of the Parties in the South China Sea (DOC) was expressed.

\n

- TERRORISM - Close cooperation among countries for combating terrorism, especially cross border movement of terrorists found mention.

\n

- ECONOMY - The declaration called upon the states to intensify efforts towards finalising the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership.
- India proposed a framework to ASEAN for cooperation in the blue economy sector.
- It offered to set up digital villages in Cambodia, Laos, Myanmar and Vietnam.
- This would be by utilising the $1 billion line of credit for connectivity.
- Besides, 2019 will be marked as the year of India-ASEAN tourism by both the sides.

\n

Why is India-ASEAN partnership so essential?

\n\n

\n

- Economic - The demand for goods in Western economies is coming down.
- Also, there could be alterations in employment structures and even loss of jobs in the coming future.
- Digital technologies and the impending Fourth Industrial Revolution could largely drive these changes.
- These call for the south-east Asian region to look deeper within, to develop markets and increase trade for mutual benefits.
- China - Maritime rivalry with China is another challenge which calls for India to develop a strong regional cooperation.
- It includes its territorial claim on the resource-rich South China Sea, OBOR initiative and power struggle in the Indian Ocean.
- Terrorism - ASEAN countries have, in the past few years, been victims of terrorist attacks; Indonesia and Thailand in particular.
- The mention of cross-border terrorism also assumes significance with India's concerns in regards with Pakistan.

- \n
- Other non-traditional challenges such as human trafficking, cybercrime and piracy also demands regional cooperation.
- \n
- Besides these, India's cultural and trade ties with Southeast Asia go back 2,000 years.
- \n
- India and ASEAN also have a unique opportunity to reap the potential of geographic proximity.
- \n
- The presence of the Indian diaspora in almost all ASEAN nations is another factor requiring partnerships.
- \n
- Given all these, India-ASEAN partnership is more an economic and strategic necessity than a choice.
- \n

\n\n

What is the way forward?

\n\n

- \n
- Several commitments to trade and maritime security made in earlier summits remain unfulfilled.
- \n
- Some of them are:
- \n

\n\n

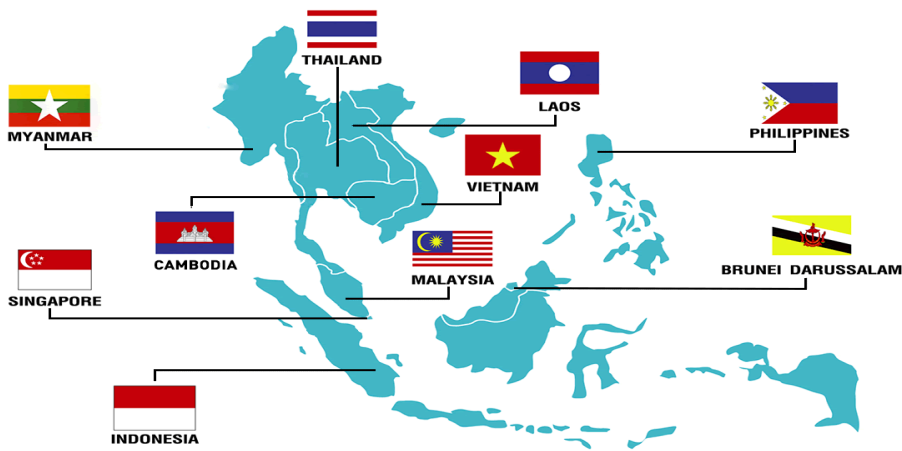

- \n
- i. Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership
- \n
- ii. connectivity between ASEAN countries and India
- \n
- iii. India's connectivity through its Northeast to Myanmar and beyond
- \n
- iv. extension of the India-Myanmar-Thailand Trilateral Highway
- \n
- v. Kaladan multimodal highway
- \n
- vi. Tamu-Kalay rail link to Myanmar
- \n

\n\n

\n

- Speeding up efforts on these fronts is essential to make 'Act East Policy' meaningful.
