

India & China - A Shared Future

What is the issue?

\n\n

\n

- India & China have a lot of shared concerns and aspirations.
- The maturity shown in easing the Doklam standoff could pave the way for a new chapter in the India China relationship.

\n

\n\n

What accompanied the ending of Doklam standoff?

\n\n

\n

- A consensus was reached to enhance mutual trust, focus on cooperation and manage differences.
- Revitalizing a series of dialogues mechanisms and to promote youth and educational cooperation was also agreed upon.
- Stress was laid on mutually seeing each other as development partners rather than as threats.
- Above all, both sides have displayed their intent to conduct comprehensive dialogues to sort out any future differences.

\n

\n\n

What have been notable areas of co-operation?

\n\n

\n

- Business - Economic and trade cooperation between the two countries have been gaining momentum steadily and crossed $70 billion last year.
- China has been for many years the largest trading partner of India.

- \n
- More than 500 Chinese companies have invested and started business in India with a total investment of over $5 billion.
- \n
- Many Indian enterprises of IT, pharmacy and consultancy have entered the Chinese market.
- \n
- Cultural - People-to-people exchanges are also thriving with mutual visits having exceeded one million.
- \n
- Yoga, Darjeeling tea, and Bollywood movies have become fashionable among the Chinese youth.
- \n
- Work is also on to hold the Annual Indian Tourism Conference in Yunnan province in China.
- \n
- Lower Government exchanges - China and India have established 14 pairs of sister cities and provinces.
- \n
- Assam representatives attended the Hangzhou International Tea Expo recently and China helped the Kerala government introduce rubber dams.
- \n
- High Diplomacy - Both the countries have maintained close high-level communications.
- \n
- Top leaders have met more than a dozen times in past couple of years in bilateral and multilateral occasions.
- \n
- Both countries share a common ground on issues like IMF reforms & WTO's Agreement on Agriculture.
- \n

\n\n

\n\n

Source: The Hindu

\n

