What are the legal challenges present before the Supreme Court over Money Bill?

- Several Bills passed as money Bills, such as the Aadhaar Act, the Finance Act, 2017, and the Finance Act, 2018, have been challenged in the Supreme Court for violating Article 110.
- Verdict on Aadhaar- The petitioners had claimed that parts of the Aadhaar Act were passed as a money Bill, despite containing provisions that were unrelated to the subjects listed under Article 110, the apex court upheld the Act as constitutional
- Appellate tribunal rules- The Finance Act, 2017 has certain provisions that gave the Centre additional control over the service conditions of tribunal members.
- They were challenged in the Supreme Court for violating the independence and autonomy of the tribunals and for being passed as a money bill, the Court struck down the rules as unconstitutional and arbitrary.
- It also held that the Speaker's decision on certifying a Bill as a money Bill is subject to judicial review and referred the question of what constitutes a money Bill to a larger seven-judge bench.
- Finance Act, 2018- It contained several provisions that were not related to the fiscal matters specified in Article 110, such as the amendment of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002 \(PMLA\), the introduction of the Electoral Bond Scheme, and the amendment of the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act, 2010.
- The Court did not address the money Bill issue on account of the pending case before the seven-judge bench, its decision will have impact on the Acts that have been challenged in the Court for violating Article 110.
