

PNB Banking Fraud Case

Why in news?

\n\n

One of the branches of State-owned Punjab National Bank (PNB) has recently detected fraudulent transactions worth over Rs 11,000 crores.

What is Letter of Understanding (LoUs)?

\n\n

\n

- LoU is an assurance given by one bank to another to meet a liability on behalf of a customer.

\n

- It is similar to a letter of credit or a guarantee.

\n

- It is used for overseas import remittances and involves four parties — an issuing bank, a receiving bank, an importer and a beneficiary entity overseas.

\n

- According to norms, they are usually valid for 180 days.

\n

- LoUs are conveyed from bank to bank through “Society for Worldwide Interbank Financial Telecommunication” (SWIFT) instructions.

\n

- Notably, till now, there is no record of a breach in SWIFT instructions anywhere in the world.

What has happened with PNB?

\n\n

\n

- PNB has alleged that two of its employees had “fraudulently” issued LoUs and transmitted SWIFT instructions to the overseas branches of Indian Banks.

\n

- This was done to raise buyer's credit for the firm of a diamond merchant without making entries in the bank system.

\n

- The bank has alleged that one such fraudulent LoU issuance took place on January 2018, the trail of which revealed the entire design.

\n

- These LoUs were mostly issued to two Hong Kong branches of Indian Banks and was for the aforesaid diamond merchant.

\n

\n\n

\n

- The details on whether LoUs were backed by collateral or the quantum of liability that the bank faces against these LoUs aren't out yet.

\n

\n\n

How will the fraud impact PNB?

\n\n

\n

- Hong Kong branches of Allahabad Bank and Axis Bank have given money to the beneficiary entity on behalf of Modi's firms.

\n

- As a result, PNB will have to settle the LoUs with these branches according to the norms of the Hong Kong Monetary Authority.

\n

\n\n

\n

- Market sentiment has already been impacted and PNB stock fell 9.81% in a single day, which consequently saw investors loose over Rs 3,000 crores.

\n

- The bank may have to set aside higher provisioning in the next few quarters if it unable to recover the money from the accused firms.

\n

- The fraud has been unearthed at a time when Indian banks are reeling under a pile of stressed assets of about Rs 10 lakh crore.

\n

- Also, higher provisioning and a rise in bond yields, has resulted in losses for most public sector banks in the previous quarter.
