Whip

The Supreme Court hearing petitions filed due to a split in the Shiv Sena, observed that members of a house are bound by the 'whip'.

Ruling - Members of a House are bound by the 'whip', and if any section of MLAs within a political party that is part of a ruling coalition says it does not want to go with the alliance, the MLAs will attract disqualification.

- The term 'whip' is derived from the old British practice of "whipping in" lawmakers to follow the party line.
- The 'office of whip' is not mentioned or defined in the Constitution.
- The 'office of whip' is a Parliamentary convention.
- In parliamentary parlance, a whip may refer to both
 - A written order to members of a party in the House to abide by a certain direction, and
 - To a designated official of the party who is authorised to issue such a direction.
- Position - In India, all parties can issue whips to their members.
- Parties appoint a senior member from among their House contingents to issue whips.
- This member is called a chief whip, and he/ she is assisted by additional whips.
- Function - A whip may require that party members be present in the House for an important vote, or that they vote only in a particular way.
- Degree of importance of Whip - Whips can be of varying degrees of seriousness and can be inferred from the number of times an order is underlined.

A one-line whip Underlined once	Usually issued to inform party members of a vote.
	Allows them to abstain in case they decide not to follow the party line.
A two-line whip Underlined Twice	Directs them to be present during the vote.
	Abstention from voting invites more scrutiny from party.
A three-line whip Underlined Thrice	Strongest whip.
	Employed on important occasions such as the second reading of a Bill or a no-confidence motion.
	Places an obligation on members to toe the party line.

- Penalty - The penalty for defying a whip varies from country to country.
- In India - Rebelling against a three-line whip can put the membership of the House at risk.
- The anti-defection law allows the Speaker/ Chairperson to disqualify such a member.
- Exception - When more than a third of legislators vote against a directive, effectively splitting the party.

- The United Kingdom - An MP can lose membership of the party, but can keep their House seat as an Independent.
- The US - More freedom to House members. The party whip's role is to gauge and persuade them to vote according to the party line.

Yield Curve Inversion

The G-sec yield curve became inverted against the similar phenomenon in the US.

- The yield curve represents the yield or interest rates of similar bonds across various tenors (maturity).
- Usually, the yield rises with an increase in the tenor of bonds.
- Yield Curve Inversion - It occurs when short-term bonds have higher yields than similar profile long-term bonds.
- It occurs under 2 situation.
 - When the yield of longer-term bonds dips below that of medium-term bonds or
 - The yield of medium-term bonds falls below that of short-term bonds.

- Indicates - Yield curve inversion could denote an impending economic recession or slowdown.
- However, this phenomenon may be short-lived once the demand for medium papers from banks increases.
- RBI Measures - RBI tries to ensure that the yield curve slopes upwards as the tenor of G-Secs increases by increasing the demand for Treasury bills.
