Eco-Sensitive Zones

\n\n

\n

- The Karnataka State Government has decided to limit the eco-sensitive zone (ESZ) around Kali Tiger Reserve.

\n

- Eco-Sensitive Zones (ESZs) are areas notified by the Ministry of Environment, Forests and Climate Change (MoEFCC), around Protected Areas, National Parks and Wildlife Sanctuaries.

\n

- The purpose of declaring ESZs is to create some kind of shock absorbers to the protected areas by regulating and managing the activities around such areas.

\n

- They also act as a transition zone from areas of high protection to areas involving lesser protection.

\n

- An ESZ could go up to 10 kilometres around a protected area as provided in the Wildlife Conservation Strategy, 2002. And it may go beyond 10 kilometres in ecologically important patches.

\n

- Though the word “Eco-Sensitive Zones” is not mentioned in the Environment protection act, a clause in the act states that central government can prohibit or restrict the location of industries and carrying on certain operations on the basis of considerations like the biological diversity of an area.

\n\n

\n

- Cabinet has recently cleared a proposal to extend proxy voting to Overseas Indians and NRIs by amending electoral laws.

\n

- Presently, NRIs and overseas Indians are free to cast their votes in constituencies where they are registered.

\n

- It requires the amendment of Representation of the People Act. After the amendment, proxy voting would also be allowed as other means to cast their votes in assembly and Lok Sabha elections from overseas.

\n

- Proxy voting is a form of voting whereby a member may delegate his or her voting power to a representative, to enable a vote in absence.
\n
- Currently, only service personnel are permitted to vote through proxy.
\n
- However, the facility for NRIs will not be the same as that enjoyed by service personnel.
