Employee's Provident Fund

\n\n

\n

- Employee's Provident Fund (EPF) is a retirement benefit scheme that is available to all salaried employees.
\n
- Any company with over 20 employees is required by law to register with the EPFO.
\n
- Both employees and employers contribute 12 per cent each of a worker's salary.
\n
- This fund is maintained and overseen by the Employees Provident Fund Organization of India (EPFO) which is under ministry of labour and employment.
\n
- The EPFO is tasked to assist the Central Board of Trustees (CBT), a statutory body formed by the Employees' Provident Fund Act, 1952.
\n
- The CBT consists of representatives of Governments (Centre and State), Employers and Employees.
\n
- The labour ministry has proposed amending the Employees Provident Funds Act, 1952 with provisions like \n
 - 1. Establishments with at least 10 workers might have to pay provident fund, with the employer contributing nine per cent of a worker's salary.
\n
 - 2. Government will have the power to reduce contribution of employers in factories with 10-20 workers from 12% to 9% towards EPFO
\n
 - 3. In factories with up to 40 workers, penalty and recovery norms will be relaxed
\n
 - 4. An appellate officer for employers so they don't have to come to Delhi to file appeal against order
\n

\n

\n

- Recently, to bring in more employees from public and private sector into the ambit of Employees' Provident Fund Organization (EPFO), an Employees' Enrolment Campaign, 2017 has been launched.
