Kepler Telescope

\n\n

∖n

- NASA has recently revealed that the Kepler Space Telescope is almost out of fuel and decided it to put the spacecraft in a hibernation-like state.  $\n$
- The Kepler telescope was originally launched in 2009 as part of NASA's Discovery Program.
  - \n
- It is an observatory in space dedicated to finding planets outside our solar system.

\n

- It targets particularly alien planets that are around the same size as Earth in the "habitable" regions of their parent star.  $\n$
- Since 2009, it has discovered extra-solar planets in the range between the size of Earth and Neptune.  $\n$
- Most of these planets were discovered in a small region of the constellation Cygnus.

\n

- Kepler was the first telescope to find a planet (Kepler-69c) approximately the size of Earth in the habitable region of a star.  $\n$
- It examined the TRAPPIST-1 system which likely has multiple Earth-sized planets in it between December 2016 and March 2017.  $\n$
- It was approved far beyond its original mission length and was operating well until May 2013, when a second of its four reaction wheels or gyroscopes failed.

TESS

\n\n

∖n

- Transiting Exoplanet Survey Satellite (TESS) is a new exoplanet hunting spacecraft.  $$\n$
- While Kepler is nearing its mission lifetime, TESS is readying to take its place.

\n

• It was launched in 2018 to detect small planets with bright host stars in the solar neighbourhood.

\n

• The spacecraft will be looking for a phenomenon known as a transit, where a planet passes in front of its star, causing a periodic and regular dip in the star's brightness.

\n

- It will do an all-sky survey from an orbit between the Earth and the moon.  $\slash n$

\n

• Formalin, a derivative of formaldehyde is a carcinogenic substance used to prolong the shelf life of fish.

\n

- It is harmful when consumed by humans.  $\space{1mm}$
- Once ingested, formalin releases toxins into the body, and the sustained ingestion of formalin can eventually lead to cancer.  $\n$
- A solution which contains 37% formalin has the capacity to kill a fully grown adult.

∖n

• Other chemicals added - Sodium benzoate was a preservative that was mixed when the ice was formed and Ammonia is also added to the ice, but it is done to prevent the ice from melting.
