H3N2 Virus

India is witnessing H3N2 subtype of seasonal influenza and has lost 2 people this year.

- Seasonal influenza or the 'flu' is a respiratory infection caused by the Influenza viruses.
- There are 3 types of Influenza viruses that infect humans: A, B, and C
- The influenza A virus is divided into subtypes based on 2 proteins found on the surface of the virus: hemagglutinin (H) and neuraminidase (N).
- There are 18 H-subtypes and 11 N-subtypes.
- More than 130 influenza A subtype combinations have been identified in nature so far, but many more subtypes are possible.
- H1N1 virus (a.k.a. Swine flu) is an influenza A subtype.

Virus reassortment is a process by which influenza viruses swap genetic information, making different subtypes.

- The H3N2 is an Influenza A subtype which appears to cause more hospitalisations than other influenza subtypes in India.
- Symptoms - It has classic flu symptoms like fever, cough, body ache, breathlessness, wheezing and pneumonia.
- Risk - Children below 5 years of age, people who are above 65 years of age, pregnant people, and people with certain long-term health conditions are at higher risk.
- Diagnosis - Nasal swab and pharyngeal swab sample collected and diagnosed through RT PCR laboratory testing.
- Cure - WHO recommended Oseltamivir (Tamiflu) is used and made available free of cost through public health systems in India.
- The sale of oseltamivir in India is allowed under Schedule H1 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940.
