Competition Commission of India

\n\n

\n

- It is a statutory body of the Government of India responsible for enforcing the Competition Act, 2002.

\n

- It is the duty of the Commission to eliminate practices having adverse effect on competition, to promote and sustain competition, protect the interests of consumers and ensure freedom of trade in the markets of India.

\n

- It has some discretionary powers in awarding punishment to an offender. They are called as leniency norms.

\n

- Presently, an entity can seek lesser penalty in cases related to cartelisation provided the entity is not part of the particular cartel anymore.

\n

- Such entities are required to provide vital disclosure with respect to cartelisation in order to be eligible for leniency.

\n

- Currently, only companies are eligible to be covered under these norms.

\n

- The commission is now considering bringing individuals within the ambit of its leniency norms.
