

Rising Fiscal Deficit

Why in news?

\n\n

The government's fiscal deficit touched 114.8% of the full-year estimates at the end of November.

\n\n

What is the current fiscal scenario?

\n\n

\n

- Fiscal deficit is the difference between total revenue and total expenditure of the government.

\n

- It is an indication of the total borrowings needed by the government.

\n

- The government had budgeted fiscal deficit of Rs 6.24 lakh crore, or 3.3% of the GDP, for FY19.

\n

- Fiscal deficit for April-November stood at Rs 7.16 lakh crore, or 114.8% of the target.

\n

- It is slightly more than the 112% recorded in the same period last fiscal.

\n

\n\n

What is the possible cause?

\n\n

\n

- Total expenditure up to November was 66.1% of the budget estimate of Rs 24.42 lakh crore.

\n

\n\n

\n

- It thus suggests that the subdued tax receipts largely contributed toward inflating the deficit.

\n

- Total receipts stood at Rs 8.9 lakh crore, or 49.3% of BE, against 54.2% for the same period last fiscal.

\n

- Net tax receipts were only 49.4% of estimates compared with 57% last year.

\n

- Disinvestment proceeds and GST revenues were not as expected.

\n

- [But the provisional settlement of Integrated GST and residual GST compensation cess (after disbursement to states) could provide some help in augmenting cash flows in coming months.]

\n

\n\n

How does the future look?

\n\n

\n

- Fiscal - The deficit could widen the gap between the target set for FY19 and the final tally.

\n

- There are several risks to meeting the budgeted targets for revenues and expenditures.

\n

- A predominant concern arises from a possible shortfall in indirect tax collections.

\n

- Revenue - A positive feature in the revenue front is the optimism seen in non-tax revenue.

\n

- It has surged more than 31%, putting the government comfortably on track to meet the budget estimate for a 3.9% increase.

\n

- However, non-tax revenue is budgeted to account for just over a seventh of total revenue.

\n

- So it could only contribute a small part in addressing the shortfalls in tax receipts.

\n

- Besides, seven public sector enterprises have been cleared for share sales as part of the disinvestment programme.

\n

- But even these are likely to only partly help meet the budgeted non-debt capital receipts.

\n

\n\n

\n

- Expenditure - Some of the government's expenditure plans committed to recently are not conducive for handling the deficit situation.

\n

- These may include public sector bank recapitalisation, increase in the quantum of incentives for the export of onions to reverse the slide in prices and the like.

\n

- Also the general elections are approaching, wherein expenditure needs a cautious handling.

\n

- The onus is on the government to avoid further fiscal slippage as it could hurt the economy by crowding out vital private investment.
