Constitutional Safeguards for Linguistic Minorities

The term "minority" is not defined in the Indian Constitution. However, the Constitution recognises religious and linguistic minorities.

- The Central Government notifies minority communities at the national level under the National Commission for Minorities (NCM) Act, 1992.
- Six communities notified as minorities under the Section 2 (c) of NCM Act are Christians, Sikhs, Muslims, Buddhists, Parsis and Jains.
- Article 29 - Right of any section of the citizens residing in India with a distinct language, script or culture of its own to conserve it.
- It grants protection to both religious minorities as well as linguistic minorities.
- The Supreme Court held that the scope of this article includes minorities as well as the majority.
- Article 30 - All minorities shall have the right to establish and administer educational institutions of their choice.
- The protection under Article 30 is confined only to minorities and does not extend to any section of citizens.
- Article 347 - If the President is satisfied that a substantial proportion of the population of a State desire the use of any language spoken by them to be recognised by that state, he may direct such language to be officially recognised.
- Article 350 - It gives the right to submit representation for redressal of grievances to any authority of the union or a state in any of the languages used in the Union/States.

- Article 350A - It provides for instruction in the mother tongue at the primary stage of education to children belonging to linguistic minority groups.
- Article 350B - It provides for a special Officer designated as Commissioner for Linguistic minorities to investigate all matters relating to the safeguards provided for linguistic minorities.
