Analyse the various geo-political events that restricted the flexibility in implementation of Foreign Policy of a country.

Geo politics:

Geopolitics is when two or more countries share a common understanding though separated by geographic barrier and political identity in order to advantage in mutual consence.

Determinants of Geopolitical tie:

Reduced flexibility in implementing foreign policy of a country

* Share of common friendly nation in a dispute affect the justice and may lead to nepotism

Eg: Russia favouring India and China in the line of actual control dispute

* Temporary stability of a disputed region poses skewed mindset on a region

Eg: Kashmir issue and Pakistan ruling in Pakistan occupied Kashmir were not evident than that consolidated area due to change in priority.

* Regional imbalance affecting international priority due to vote Bank politics.

Eg: Sharing of Hoogly & Teesta river water since a dispute between Bangladesh and India.

* Third nation influence due to unfriendly relationship with former affects the diplomatic etc.

Eg: India's vote against Indonesia in UN in favour of China.

India's vote against Israel in favour of Palestine issue.

Way forward:

Long sustainable international bonds and historic features strengthen foreign policy even thru storms and thunder affects. Change in regime with diplomacy have less role to be played in negative and have high potential to change Geocentricity and multinational approach seems to be flexible policy
