

Q there is a need for Public Private health model in order to provide affordable as well as efficient healthcare in country. Discuss. (200) words.

Ans.

One of the best example for Public Private Partnership (PPP) is Bharat Biotech and government of India Partnership for vaccine.

Why we need :-

PPP is a great opportunity for india to reforms and do better in health sector because during pandemic we already lost 1.67 lakh people due to insufficient health infrastructure.

* benefits :-

(1) technology :-

we can bring latest technology which help us to tackle many dangerous disease and diagnosis it more quickly with technology. for this private player can help us with funding or investment.

(2) fund :- we can get more funds or investment from private companies which we can use for betterment of public.

(3) better or brighter future :- there is quote "precaution is better than cure" so if we work more on this definitely our next generation or young generation will be more healthy which benefit us in many ways, ex. economy, health, education etc.

* concern :-

(1) administration :-

for this we need corrupt free, partial, speedy decision making administration. not for money but for better health.

(2) Infrastructure :-
Most important concerns. is infrastructure. we don't have that environment or facility which give a push to private player to invest in health sector.

(3) Cost :- For say if we did it PPP Partnership. than now we will going to set cost for curing different disease. because technology will be costly. and not all people will able to pay that cost.

Conclusion :-

for above concern we can use different government scheme like Ayushman Bharat, Am aadmi bima yojana, MDHM, which provide 75 percent coverage on new project loan up to Rs 200 crore.
